- European Commission imposes anti-dumping duties on more Chinese steel products

The Commission today published definitive anti-dumping measures a new type of steel products originating in China. The latest investigation confirmed the preliminary findings that the Chinese seamless pipes had been sold in Europe at dumped prices. Chinese exports will now be taxed with an extra duty ranging from 29.2% to 54.9%. This is another clear example of how the EU is using the available toolbox of trade defence instruments to address unfair imports of steel.

- The Commission launches the EU Platform on Animal Welfare

The Commission is publishing today the composition of the EU Platform on Animal Welfare (the Platform) announced in January 2017. The Platform brings together 75 member organisations both from the public and private sector and relevant international intergovernmental organisations, in order to maximise the outcome of the discussions and thereby improve the welfare of animals in the EU. The inaugural meeting of the Platform is scheduled for 6 June 2017 in Brussels. For more information on the Platform see here.

- Winner of 2017 EU Prize for Contemporary Architecture - Mies van der Rohe Award announced

The European Commission and the Mies van der Rohe Foundation announced today the winner of the 2017 EU Prize for Contemporary Architecture: the prize will be given to the innovative renovation of Kleiburg, a 1960s apartment building in Amsterdam, by NL Architects and XVW architecture. The award ceremony will take place on 26 May at the Mies van der Rohe Pavilion in Barcelona. The €60,000 biennial Prize, which is the most prestigious in European architecture, was launched in 1987 to highlight the contribution of European architects to the development of new ideas and technologies in contemporary urban development. It is co-funded by the Creative Europe Programme and the Fundació Mies van der Rohe. For further information, please see here.
